You're talking to a con man of military romance. I received an email from the U.S. Military directly answering your question below, read on. I believe you're the victim of a military romance, while the person you're talking to is a foreign national posing as an American soldier claiming to be stationed abroad on a peacekeeping mission. That's the key to the deception they always claim is in a peacekeeping mission. Part of their scam says they don't have access to all the money that their mission is very dangerous. If boyfriend girl / future husband / wife asks you to do the following or has shown this behavior, it is most likely a scam.It moved to a private messaging page immediately after meeting you on Facebook or SnapChat or Instagram or some dating site or social network. Often times they delete the page where you met them immediately after they asked you to move very quickly to a more private messaging siteProfesses love to you very quick & it seems to quote songs and lyrics along with using your own kind of broken language, as they quickly profess their love and loyalty. They also showed concern for your health and love for your family. Promises marriage as soon as he/she gets on leave condition that they're asked to pay for. They ask for money (bank transfers) and Amazon, iTune, Verizon, etc. gift cards, for medicine, religious practices, and leaves to return home, internet access, complete job assignments, help a sick friend, get him out of trouble, or anything that sounds suspicious. The army provides all the needs of soldiers, including medical food care and transportation for leave. Believe me, I've lived through it, you've probably been cheated. I'm just trying to show you examples of most likely being cheated. Below is an email response I received after I sent an inquiry to the US government when I discovered I had been cheated. I received this wonderful response back with a lot of useful links on how to find and report your scammer. And how to learn more about romance scams. Right now you can copy the image he gave you and do a Google image search and hopefully see pictures of the real person he's imitating. It doesn't always work and take some digging. If you find a real person, you can direct them and warn them that their image is being used for fraud. Good luck to you, and I'm sorry this might be happening to you. continue reading the government's response that I received below is very informative. You contacted the e-mail overseeing the U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Command. Unfortunately, it's a common concern. We assure you there is never any reason to send money to anyone claiming to be a soldier online. If you only talked to that person online, they're probably not an American soldier at all. If it is a suspicious profile of a cheater on social networks, we invite you to report it to that platform as soon as possible. Read on for more resources and answers to other FAQs: How to report a cheater Facebook profile: Caution- ... < Caution- ... > on FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS: - Soldiers and their loved ones are not charged money so that the Soldier can go on leave. - Soldiers are not charged money for safe communication or departure. - Soldiers don't need permission to get married. - Soldiers e-mails are in this format: john.doe.mil@mail.mil < Caution-mailto: john.doe.mil@mail.mil > nothing ends in .us .com is not an official email account. - Soldiers have health insurance, which pays its medical expenses when treated in civilian health institutions around the world – family and friends do not need to pay their medical expenses. - Military aircraft are not used to transport privately owned vehicles. - Military financial offices are not used to assist soldiers in the purchase or sale of items of any kind. - Soldiers deployed to combat zones do not need to ask the public for money to feed or rehome themselves or their troops. - Deployed soldiers don't find large unclaimed sums of money and they need your help to get that money out of the country. Anyone who tells you one of the above terms/circumstances is true is probably posing as a soldier and trying to steal money from you. I was even very open on location and start date to get interviews for the host (I negotiated a start date for the interview until both I and my host were happy.) You can ask a recruiter to review your form (there are very cool ones and they could help you a lot because they have greater experience). Search for a potential team. Before the interview, try to find a smart question to ask the potential host (search the team to find beautiful and deep questions to impress the host). Prepare your resume well. Very likely you will not get questions of algorithms / data structure as in the first round. It'll just be some friendly conversation if you're lucky. If your potential team is working on something like machine learning, expect them to ask you questions about machine learning, machine learning courses you have, and relevant experience (projects, internships). Of course you have to study it before the interview. Take as much as you need if you feel rusty. It takes a while to prepare to match the host (this is less than a technical interview), but of course, it's worth it. dd form 2977 full military pubs dd form 2977 example dd form 2977 military pubs dd form 2977 full esd dd form 2977 apd intentional risk assessment worksheet for range to form 7566 army draw example of DA 31 form used by the Department of the Army.
